What makes me special?

I've been passionate about a lot of things in my life. And it wasn't until recently that I discovered the common thread in all of it: learning new things is exciting! And it's because of that quality, that I managed to gain a wide variety of skills.

It's the combination of all my skills that makes me an asset in projects. Improving usability, user test a prototype, writing code or do a presentation in front of 100 people, I think it's all fascinating.

I had the opportunity to see a company grow from 5 to 160 people. This helped a lot in developing the soft skills needed in both smaller and bigger teams!
